We use a technology called "Blue Tooth Low Energy" (BLE) beacons -- These are sometimes called iBeacons (from apple) or "Eddystone" from Google.

There are a variety of products around that can read the beacons and trigger events.

I do not know of any off-the-shelf products that will do what you are after, but rolling your own product with existing parts should not be too difficult.

We can get together for a call or brief meeting at your convenience.

Thanks,
David
